EDGAR WOOD GRADE I LISTED BUILDING

HISTORY OF EDGAR WOOD

The Grade I listed building was designed and named after its architect, Edgar Wood. It exhibits an exquisite Expressionist style with Art Nouveau details. Building commenced in 1903 and was completed in 1907. Its original function was as a church for the Christian Scientists based in Boston, USA.

The design of the building is reminiscent of the German Romanticists of the 18th Century the same place that Walt Disney got his influences for the castle located at the entrance of Disneyland.

The small gate house invites you into a space which itself embraces you as you approach the wonderful Art Nouveau doorway.

The interior is made up of arches which lead to the Marble reredos. The balcony screen at the rear of the main hall was inspired by the Islamic art of North Africa but, like the redos, is reminiscent of Viennese Secessionist design around the same time. Finally, there is a beautiful Art Nouveau fireplace – a deep emerald green colour – which ‘would not be out of place in the British Museum’ located in the Green Room.
